under construction) to register for presentation. Please fill in your basic information and upload your full-text paper before October 15, 2026. Your full-text paper should be in both Word(.doc/.docx) and PDF format. For more information, please write to secretary@huayu.org .

3. Each individual may submit only one abstract as the first author but can be a co-author of other abstracts. In principle, an individual should publish no more than three papers as corresponding author or co-author. If the first author of an accepted paper is a valid ATCSL member, the registration fee is not required. Registration fees are also waived for instructors conducting seminars in the teaching workshops.

4. Presenters are encouraged to submit their full conference papers to Taiwan Journal of Chinese as a Second Language, a research journal, and TCSL Forum, a practical journal issued by ATCSL. During the review process of the journal, the editors will prioritize the consideration of publication for exceptional papers that have been presented at the ACTSL conference.
